

A region with ideal living conditions.

The Lower Elbe region is situated in the heart of the Hamburg Metropolitan Region and stretches from Hamburg through Stade to Brunsbüttel. The Elbe links the region together. The Lower Elbe economic region offers interesting industry locations and holds potential for additional industries to settle. Germany's ongoing energy transformation is also a promising factor for the Lower Elbe region.

The Hamburg Metropolitan Region and the Lower Elbe area not only excels because of its outstanding business opportunities, but it is also an ideal place to live.

Hamburg residents are quick to name Hamburg the most beautiful city of the world. They love their city and are usually very content with their lives. The Hamburg Metropolitan Region has a population of around 5 million. Over the last few years, the region has developed into the most dynamic and fastest-growing metropolitan area in Germany. Although the area is large in size, the region has managed to retain its original charming character, its diversity and its favorable living conditions. The broad range of leisure and cultural offerings, including theaters, operas, museums, musicals and much more form part of the high level of satisfaction for residents. The Hamburg Metropolitan Region also attracts students and skilled professionals from all over the world. Education and training, as well as research and development are key elements of Hamburg and its metropolitan area.

Both locals and tourists can choose from a large offering for regional recreation and endless possibilities to discover the area of the Hamburg Metropolitan Region and the Lower Elbe region. Living near the water means nature at its finest and countless sports and leisure activities.

Further links:

Maritime Lower Elbe Region:
<http://www.maritime-elbe.de/home.html>

Hamburg Metropolitan Region:
<http://metropolregion.hamburg.de/tourismus/>

Hamburg Welcome:
<http://welcome.hamburg.de/>